My Impressions of Columbia.

Editor News:—
Dear Sir,

As per your request to write a letter, to your valuable paper, on some subject, and thinking the matter over, I thought I would draft up a few lines about your splendid little town of Columbia. I have traveled very extensively throughout the principal cities of the United States, including small towns and hamlets, but I want to say, you have one of the best little towns here, that I ever visited. In the first place you have the best sidewalks that you will find anywhere in the country. A resident can leave his threshold, and walk to any part of the little town, without getting his shoes soiled. There is plenty of shade on all the streets, some beautiful little homes, which all the Columbia people are interested in, pretty lawns, beautiful flowers, surrounding each little home. I am a close observer, and one thing in particular I notice, you don't see any debris, such as barrels, boxes, and old papers lying around any place. The sanitary condition of the town from my observation I believe is first-class. The people of the town are of the nicest kind. They greet you with a friendly good morning, and they all show the good old southern hospitality. I have had several invitations to visit some of the best farmers, and influential men in the county. In conclusion I will say, that I am enjoying my visit in your midst, and hope to remain for the rest of the summer. I also had the pleasure of driving, with horse and buggy to Milltown, which I consider a very pretty little place. I enjoyed the trip very much. I am contemplating making a good many of these drives, if the weather and road conditions will permit. I find that commodity, such as provisions, produce, clothing, and other necessary articles, are as cheap here in Columbia, as you will find in Louisville. I could quote you some articles that are cheaper, and throughout, fine lot of business men, who are satisfied with a small profit, and don't want great big margins, like you find in other towns. You also have two first-class banks, and the officials will at all times extend courtesy to all its patrons. I could write of a great deal more of the nice treatment, we have received by all the people out here among God's nature and the kindness and courtesy myself and wife have received. We are enjoying our visit very much, and will always hold a warm spot in our hearts for "Columbia and its residents."

Respectfully yours,
Capt. J. P. Carney.

Dr. A. J. Wawahoo.

The subject of this sketch is an Indian herbalist who has been located for the past 3 or 4 months some 4 miles south east of Jamestown, Russell county, near the mouth of Lily creek, a short distance above Greasy Creek Ldg. Dr. Wawahoo is reported as being a graduate from 5 of the leading medical colleges of this country, to have done special study at the University of Berlin, Berlin, Germany, and to hold a patent from the government to manufacture his own remedies.

He is 82 years old, a veteran of 5 wars, including 2 Indian wars; has 2 or 3 sons in Germany, 3 daughters with the Red Cross in Japan, and his parents are both living and enjoying life at the ripe old ages of 105 and 107. The doctor at this time has about 700 patients from all over the county and different parts of the state.

Wilmore Wins Suit.

In the suit of James A. Wilmore vs. the United States Casualty Company, a jury in Circuit court late Tuesday returned a verdict in plaintiff's favor for $499.99, the amount sought, with interest from July 26, 1920. It was claimed this amount was due on a death and accident policy. From a Lexington Paper.

Pollard's Chapel Dedicated.

A tremendous crowd of people assembled at Pollard's Chapel last Sunday, the occasion being the dedication of the new church completed a short time ago.

Many years ago when Pat Davis was quite a young man in the Milltown neighborhood, concluded to preach, and his first sermon was delivered in the old church, on the same grounds which the new building now occupies. The boys and girls that he was reared with, and many of the older people were out to hear him. From that day he took up local work, and for a number of years he has been a prominent minister in the Methodist Church, serving congregations in different parts of the State. For the past fifteen years he has been in evangelistic work, and hundreds have been converted under his preaching.

The people in the neighborhood concluded that Rev. Davis was the proper minister to dedicate the new church. He was invited to come, accepted, and on last Sunday he faced something like a thousand people who gathered in a grove near the building. After a debt of over three hundred dollars was assumed, Rev. Davis, in a most interesting discourse dedicated the new church at the service of God.

After the sermon, dinner was announced, and such an abundance of food, consisting of ham, chicken, mutton, fresh pork, and many different kinds of delicacies were never before spread before an Adair county audience. It was a great day of rejoicing, long to be remembered. Pollard Chapel neighborhood has long been known for her generous hospitality, and while the preparations for this occasion were done on a much larger scale than usual, it was done cheerfully, all the donors feeling happy over the day.

Rev. Davis lives in Louisville, the metropolis of the state, but with all her advantages, he is never happier than when he is preaching to the people of his home county.

Prof. P. D. Neilson.

Prof. P. D. Neilson, who was at the head of the McMinnville, Tenn., schools, made an enviable reputation in that city. A dispatch from that place, speaking of the schools says:

"Prof. P. D. Neilson was re-elected superintendent, but declined since he has accepted the position of superintendent of the city schools of Harri-man. Mr. Neilson has not only made the school a most splendid instructor, but in the Methodist church has been a most valuable worker, having successfully taught the large men's Bible class. He has been a splendid citizen and his departure is a source of deep regret to the entire town. Mrs. Neilson has added much to the spiritual and social life of the town. Their only child, Miss Mary Fleming Neilson, is very popular among the younger set."

Some years ago Prof. Neilson was at the head of the Lindsey-Wilson, this place, and he and his family are very pleasantly remembered in Columbia. He is a very superior teacher, and as disciplinarian, he is not outclassed. Pupils under him soon learn that his word is authority, and on account of the strict manner in which he conducts a school, they have the utmost respect for him.

Over The Top.

The drive for $3,300 by the Methodist people of Columbia Church, for Educational purposes, was concluded last Sunday night after one week's work. When the subscriptions were added it was found that $3,500.50 had been raised, $250 over the amount asked, and there are yet cards of subscriptions to come in. Rev. Bennett, pastor of the Church said Sunday night that it took less work to raise the above amount than any drive he was ever in. In Southern Methodism $33,900,000 was to be raised and there is not a doubt but more than that amount will be raised.

Death of Cassius Hood.

The passing of this well-known young man was not a surprise to his many friends, as he was afflicted with pulmonary trouble, and had been an invalid for more than a year. He was only about twenty-seven years old. He realized his condition and last year he went to North Carolina, hoping to prolong his years, but there was no improvement, and a few months ago he returned to his home, remaining in his room until the end which occurred last Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock.

The funeral was conducted Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and the interment was in the Cox cemetery, a large circle of sympathizing relatives and friends being present.

The deceased was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Creed Hood, and was born and reared where he died, three miles out of Columbia, on the Campbellsville pike.

The deceased served in the World war, and the hardships he encountered in the army probably shortened his life.

He was patriotic, loved his country and was willing to die for it. It was while he was in the army the surgeon of his regiment told him that on account of his failing health, he could secure for him his discharge. Cassius flatly refused, saying that he entered the army to serve, and that he had no patients with a slacker. When death came it left all who knew him in sorrow.

He was a young man of sterling character, and was a favorite of the young people in his neighborhood. He was preceded to the grave by a sister and his father, their deaths occurring only a few months ago.

May the blessing of God comfort the surviving members of the household is the wish of every body in the neighborhood. Cassius could not get well, and as he was ready for his Master's call, they should rejoice that he is now free from suffering, and that after awhile there will again be a united family.

An Old Relic Found.

Mr. G. W. Harris, who lived here several years, assisting Mr. G. B. Smith in the milling business, losing his wife here, now lives at Danville, with his son, Dr. Elam Harris, was with friends here a day or two of last week. He exhibited to The News a spring backed knife, when opened was eight inches long, the handle being made out of bright metal. He stated that he was cultivating a garden on the site where a college building was burned forty years ago, and in turning over the ground he found the knife. It was evidently carried as a dirk by some one many years ago.

Uriah Bradshaw Dead.

Last Tuesday afternoon the subject of this notice died at his home in the Bliss neighborhood. He was about sixty years old and was a native of Russell county, but he had lived in Adair for a number of years. He was known as a barn builder, and his services were at all times in demand. He was a very industrious man, doing his work well. He was sick but one week. He is survived by a wife and family of children, who have the sympathy of the people who live in the neighborhood. The funeral and burial occurred Wednesday.

Frightful Accident.

Last Wednesday morning in descending the back steps at her mother's home, Miss Virginia Smith's shoe heel caught and she fell to the bottom, there being quite a number of steps. The accident was alarming, and at first it was thought by those who reached her instantly that she was dangerously hurt. After she was carried to her room, it was found that no bones were broken, but she was considerably bruised about the head, body and arms. In a day or two she came around all right.

Burned to Death.

Mr. Ed Poore, a young man who was reared in Columbia, a son of Wm. and Anna Poore, lost his life while on duty at Memphis, Tenn., last Saturday week.

The deceased was a boiler making by profession and was enroute to work at the factory, when the oil in the tank which was conveyed to the engine, became ignited by the carelessness of a negro helper and the oil back fired and spread over Mr. Poore's face and body. He sucked the blaze, and was soon unconscious, conveyed to the hospital, dying on Tuesday morning at 6:15.

After funeral services, held in Memphis, the body was shipped to this place, arriving last Saturday afternoon, accompanied by his wife, mother, his brother Will, his sister-in-law and a friend, Thos. J. Connolly. The deceased aunt, Mrs. Sale, had been here several days. The remains were placed in the parlor of Grissom & Patterson's undertaking establishment, remaining until Sunday afternoon when the burial took place in the city cemetery. A short service was held at the grave, conducted by Rev. Leslie J. B. Smith.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian Church, having made a profession, joining the congregation here when quite a lad. He is remembered in Columbia as a boy where he grew to manhood in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Curd.

Our information is that as a man he was a skilled workman, whose services were always in demand.

We extend our sympathy to the widow, mother, brother and all other relatives.

He left his wife quite a large sum in life insurance.

The Lebanon Enterprise publishes the following truthful paragraph:—"The man who saves something every year is on the road to prosperity. It may not be possible to save much. If not, save a little. Do not think that a dollar or a dime is too small a sum to lay by. Everybody knows how little expenditures get away with large sums. A few seem to know that the rule is one that works both ways. A dime spent here and a dollar spent there soon makes a large hole in a man's income, so do dimes and dollars laid away soon become a visible and a respectable accumulation. In this country any man can make himself independent or keep himself under the harrow for life, according to the way he saves his small change."

There is a law against the "cutout." Listen and see if you do not hear one every ten minutes in the day, and up to twelve o'clock at night. There is also a speed limit in the corporate limits of Columbia which is violated every day. It is common for automobiles to go out and come in on Burkesville street at the rate of thirty miles an hour. If this law is not enforced there is great danger of a child or children being killed. Children, whose homes are fronting the street, are often at play on the highway, and when they are busy in the sand, no thought of danger enter their minds.

I am now prepared to give gass for the painless extraction of teeth.

Last week a robbery was perpetrated in Louisville and the name of David Banks was given as the robber. There is a David Banks born and reared at Cane Valley this county, a son of the late Owen Banks, a young business man of Chicago, Ill., who is above reproach. Fearing that some one might report that he was the Banks named in the daily papers, his mother wants this statement published in order to protect his good name.

He is also a nephew of Mr. M. Cravens.

The people of the neighborhood showed their hospitality, and there was an abundance for everybody in the way of refreshments.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

BLONDES AND BRAINS

A LEARNED judge was recently quoted as announcing from his bench that he would not approve of blonde ladies as members of a jury which was about to hear a case under his jurisdiction.

"Blondes are fickle," were the words attributed to the justice, intimating that fickleness is a bar to what the law is supposed to assure the person on trial.

A year or so ago a big Western employer in advertising for office help announced that he would not receive the applications of blondes, giving as a reason that he had found them inattentive to work and temperamental in disposition.

There has always been a good deal of discussion regarding the relative attractiveness of blondes and brunettes despite the fact that in the long ago when the caveman was the highest type of civilization, we were all blonde, or at least red hair was the darkest tint.

The reason why nature covered primeval men and women with blonde or red hair was twofold; that it served the same purposes of low visibility which is gained by the animals whose fur coats blend with the surroundings in which they live and the fact that those colors better protected the skin from the effects of direct sunlight.

We know that these colors of hair prevailed because in the discovery of almost every burial place of people of that time light or reddish tinged hair has been found.

It is interesting to note that the three parts of the body which longest resist the disintegration which follows death are the teeth, the finger nails and the hair, and of these the last two are very nearly of the same character.

Which is getting some little way distant from the contention that blonde women are not fit for jury duty because they are fickle.

Dido, queen of Carthage, of whom Virgil writes in the Aeneid, was not fickle, although she was a blonde. She stuck to her hero through thick and thin and killed herself with a sword that he furnished.

Cleopatra, who had red hair, a shade darker than the real blonde, was not what one might call absolutely constant in her devotions, but in modern society she might not be listed as extremely fickle.

But the analyzing of society, ancient or modern, according to the color of the hair, would not furnish very substantial basis for judging either women or men, blondes or brunettes.

It is what is just under their hair that establishes the real qualifications for any sort of duty.

Brains are all one color.

If the color of hair determined ability what would become of the unfortunate who haven't any hair at all?

Never mind about your hair, young lady readers. Don't bother about its color, and don't spend too much time "fixing" it.

If you are to be anxious about anything, be anxious about the inside of your head instead of the outside. That's the side that counts.

The Winning Heart.

The only way to win a heart, Is when human nature takes a part.

There are many people here and there, Of whom we think we could trust a care.

Many of the friends we meet, With disposition just so sweet. And costly garments they display.

Some are your friends for only one day.

But pure in heart ways are warp that last,

Which can all false ideas blast, A winning heart we have been told,

Is worth much more than all our gold.

For a winning heart when given a thought,

For all our gold could not be brought.

A winning heart, love and good will,

Will many a home true pleasures fill.

But good will and friendship rests,

Upon mother nature's hovering breast,

What is better than a sunny smile?

Which we can treasure in our heart for many a mile.

When our friends smile and say good-bye,

It's a time which makes us sigh

But their smile is with us yet,

When they are gone we won't forget.

Remember well that whatever you do,

Do it with a heart that is noble and true.

Follow good will's footsteps never to fall,

Have a winning heart and love for all.

Harding or Harvey?

A Boston supporter of President Harding quotes with great approval the following from the recent address of the President incidental to the bringing back to America of the remains of 5,000 American soldiers, asking triumphantly if the words found below do not show the proper conception by the President of America's motives in going to war:

"These heroes were sacrificed in the supreme conflict of all human history. They saw democracy challenged and defended it. They saw civilization threatened and rescued it. They saw America affronted and resented it. They saw our nation's rights imperiled, and stamped those rights with a new sanctity and renewed security."

This is well said. If we could be sure that it represented the real thoughts of the President, we could accept it as a summing up satisfactory to the whole nation. But Mr. Harvey, who bears Mr. Harding's commission as American Ambassador to Great Britain, has, in strident terms, contradicted and denounced the thoughts Mr. Harding utters above. Who, then, represents the Republican party, Harding or Harvey? Mr. Harding straddled all through his canvass for the office of President; does he propose to continue to straddle in the handling of executive business?—Louisville Post.

LIBRARY WORK

LIBRARY work has a great appeal to many women. A girl is sure of a good deal of liberty in such work, can add to its value and interest if she be so minded, and can feel fairly certain of permanent employment.

But the salaries are small, very small. Like the teacher, the librarian must struggle to make both ends meet and keep up appearances. She has usually had a thorough education and a special training that has cost money. Sometimes she begins her work with a debt to pay off. She often injures her health in the attempt to do this.

This is wrong. I know one young woman who is librarian in a technical library. Everything about the work is attractive and interesting; the girl loves it. But she could not afford to keep the position were it not that she has a small private income to help, and no one dependent upon her. She gets only $1,300 a year, with a short vacation.

Libraries and library positions are to see a great increase in the next few years. Clever and well-bred women will be in demand. But how can such women afford, with living expenses what they are, to take positions so poorly paid?

There must be a change in these things.

The community must recognize that positions of this kind, which are an asset to the whole neighborhood, should receive a fair return. A good library cannot be good unless the librarians who work in it are well trained and first-class. Such cannot go on forever making sacrifices because they wish to serve the community, and love the labor they do.

It is high time to insist on a proper increase in library salaries.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BUMPER."

USED in the sense of a "bumper" of wine—and therefore belonging to the malt, vinous and dead languages—this word harks back to the days of the Restoration when the drinking was deep and the shouting long and when, as penance for any slip of the tongue or forgetfulness of manners, the culprit was sentenced to drink a "bumper" without spilling a drop.

As this feat did not depend so much upon the liquid capacity of the drinker as upon the steadiness of his nerves, it was no light task—particularly well along toward morning. A large goblet or a small bowl was filled to the brim with wine and then a few additional drops were carefully added, so that the liquid would not overflow but would actually rise a fraction of an inch over the top of the containing vessel. The surface, being convex, was said to be "bumped up" and it was then accepted as a true "bumper." It is in this sense of "more than full" that we still refer to a "bumper crop" or a "bumper audience."

Just Matter of Deduction.

Speaking of the development of the story-telling talent in youth, Richard Bennett, the actor, is fond of relating this incident:

Some years ago a prominent citizen of a town lost a horse. It was not much of a horse. In fact, it was blind in one eye and spavined. But, perhaps as a relic, Bennett says, the prominent citizen wanted the horse. So he advertised, offering $5 reward for its return. The town half-wit, a boy of nineteen, with a harelip, came one afternoon leading the horse, with a strap about the size of a shoestring, to the prominent citizen's door. The horse's owner was pleased,

"Now," said he kindly, scenting a good narrative and perhaps an adventure, "now, my boy, here's your $5; and I'll give you another $5 if you'll tell me just how you found my horse."

"Well, all right," said the boy. "I jus' thought if I was that old horse where I would go, and I did and he was."

He got the extra five.—Kansas City Star.

HANNA'S GREEN-SEAL PAINT

has, however, a still more important job than beautifying. It is to save the property from deterioration, by saving the wood surface from decay. COMMITTEEMEN MEETS.

The Democratic Committeemen of Adair county met in the Paramount Theater last Monday afternoon, and organized by electing J. R. Garnett, Chairman, and Mrs. A. H. Ballard Vice Chairman, and Miss Estelle Willis Secretary. A resolution was unanimously adopted that the Democrats of Adair county meet in mass Convention in Columbia, at the Picture Show Hall on Saturday, June 25, 1921, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of discussing and determining whether or not the Democratic party of said county will have a ticket or a partial ticket or a partial ticket for county offices, to be voted for at the coming November election.

It is hoped that Democrats throughout the county will attend the convention.

A cloud burst near Pueblo, Cal., on the 4th drowned, it is estimated 500 people and damaged and destroyed property valued at $10,000,000.

Is it possible that there will be no candidate to represent Adair and Taylor in the next Legislature? It is high time that an announcement was made.

Mr. Lucas the newly appointed collector in the Fifth district, is changing his force as fast as possible. Fifty or sixty new appointments have been made in the last two weeks.

Co operating in sale of tobacco is now the all absorbing question among growers of Kentucky. Speakers are going over the State making addresses showing the advantages derived in co-operating marketing.

John McLaughlin and Abe Benick, officers in the McCombs Oil Company, who were indicted and tried before Judge Evans at Louisville, the charge being using the mail to defraud, were fined ten thousand dollars each which they paid. Honesty invariably wins out. If you do not want to get into trouble do not take that that is not thy own.

Last Wednesday afternoon it was announced by Senator Ernst that the following Kentucky patronage program had been agreed on by the Kentucky leaders: Marshal Eastern Kentucky, Roy Blaine Williams, of Jackson; District Attorney, Eastern District, Sawyer Smith, of Barbourville; District Attorney, Western District, McKenzie Moss, of Bowling Green; State prohibition director, Samuel Collins, of Whitesburg.

William Jones was cashier and ticket seller at the Interurban Station, Louisville. He had been highflying and was out of money, and was several hundred dollars short. He enlisted a couple of pals, had them to tie him to a chair, gag him. Then his pals took $832 from the cash drawer, carried it off and hid it and later the three divided the funds. Jones had forgotten the old adage, "Be sure your sins will find you out," and as a result of his loss of memory he and his pals, Luther Roberts and Dudley Roberts are now in the lockup.

The first installment of the amount Germany is to pay United States was made June 1st, $35,733,000. the payments were not made in actual cash or gold, but in the transfer of the banking credits of the four financial houses. The bankers for several days have been sending a series of their own checks, against the balances of the Germany government in their institutions, to the Federal Reserve Bank. The credit thus transferred was placed in the Federal Reserve Bank to the credit of the Bank of England and the Bank of France.

A race war broke out at Tulsa, Oklahoma, Wednesday, June 1st, in which seventy-five men, fifty negroes and twenty-five white men were killed and wounded. The trouble arose over the arrest of Dick Rowland, a negro man for an alleged assault on an orphan white girl. State troops and machine guns were ordered to the scene. Part of the city was also burned while the fighting was in progress. When a crime like the above is perpetrated, death should be the punishment for the guilty party, but it is terrible for innocent people to have to give up their lives for the crime of the guilty.

Jake Corbett, a well-known Kentucky Democratic politician died at Wickliff, Ky., last Wednesday. He was active in politics for many years. He was a victim of locomotor ataxia, and was making the race to represent Ballard and Carlisle counties, canvassing in a wheeled chair, when he took his bed. He was Gov. Luke P. Blackburn's private Secretary. The most touching plea that ever came from his lips was in a State Convention when he appealed to the delegates to renominate his father, Tom Corbett, for Registrar of the Land office.

Walter P. Stamp, who murdered W. Smith Russell and also shot the latter's wife, in Louisville, one night last week, has surrendered. He denies that he fired the shots, but all that has been published in regard to the murder points to him as the guilty party. Russell and his wife were in an automobile when the shots were fired into their bodies. The whole story reads like jealousy without a cause. Stamp and his wife were living apart and Russell and his wife were friends of the deserted woman. For no other cause Russell was killed and his wife wounded.

The Lebanon Enterprise speaking from age and experience, says: "Never was there a time in the history of this country when the people were as constant and inveterate readers of newspapers as they are today and this is especially so in the matter of newspaper advertising.

People who a few years ago would hardly look at an advertisement now digest every word of it, and they do it with a purpose. The human mind is broadening and expanding, and becoming more liberal. It demands food, and particularly that class of food that conserves the financial interests of the reader. The demand is satisfied in perusal of newspaper advertisements provided for quick action is taken to grasp the money-saving opportunities offered. The well worded advertisement appeals directly to every well balanced mind. It points the way to economy. And the wise business man advertises accordingly.

One of the most accurate newspaper writers in the United States is Eugene W. Newman, who writes for a syndicate of papers from Washington, D. C., over the nom de plume, "Sayvovard." He was born and reared at Lafayette, Metcalfe county, of honorable and highly respected parents, and was given every advantage in reach of a young man, and soon after reaching his majority he became a lawyer, but he was not in love with the profession, and after practicing a few years he took to newspaper writing. His peculiar style and force soon brought him into the limelight, and to-day he is the most accurate historian in the United States. He commenced his newspaper career, if we remember correctly, by contributing to the Bowling Green Pantagraph and the Glasgow Times; and early in his life he was the most popular writer in the Green river and Peneryle sections of Kentucky. Later he became a political writer on the Courier-Journal, making his home in Louisville. At that time Emmet Logan was the editor of the Times, and Newman and him were great cronies. For the last twenty years or more he has been located at the seat of National Government, writing for quite a number of leading dailies. When he is removed to that country where all the good men go, he will be greatly missed here below.

A FALSE DOCTRINE.

Judged by the expressions of many candidates for seats in the next General Assembly, there appears to be a strong tendency toward the localizing of the auto license taxes for the use and benefit of the counties in which they are collected. This tendency has taken the form of pledges on the part of some of the would-be solons to their constituents. They promise to vote and work for an amendment to the present tax law that will assure to each county in the State the tax money derived from motor vehicles to be applied to the upkeep of the public roads and bridges in that county. In some districts this apparently has become a leading campaign issue.

Under the present law motor vehicle license taxes are collected under the supervision of the State Tax Commission and go into the State Highway Fund. Under this system counties with few or no motor vehicles share in the auto tax money on the same basis as those in which motor vehicles abound. While any diversion of the motor vehicle tax money as suggested by the proposed amendment is manifestly a short-sighted policy that would retard the State-wide road improvement movement, it appears that it will have to be met when the lawmakers assemble at Frankfort next winter.

Self-interest has retarded many a movement for the general welfare, and the proposal to divert the motor car taxes to the use and benefit of the counties that pay them is another proof of a selfish tendency as old as the world.—Louisville Times.

Judge Carter, of Tompkinsville, spent a few hours in our midst, while en route for Liberty, a few days ago.

George Coffey was calling on his many friends in this section, a day or so ago.

Mr. James Keen and his son, Beckham, who have been sick for some time, we are glad to report are improving at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Flowers, of Columbia, passed here the first of the week en route for Red Lick, where they expect to spend several days with their relatives.

Dr. J. A. Yates, of Edmont, called in to see his uncle, Charlie Yates, one day last week and spent a few hours.

Decoration Day was observed here. Quite a number of our people spent the day where there dear ones are resting.

Master James Moss spent a few days at Greensburg, last week, visiting relatives and friends, and while there, with parties from Greensburg, visited Mammoth Cave.

Messrs. Nunnally, Whitlock, and several other commercial men of Louisville, were calling on our merchants last week.

Rome, the colored boy living with Mr. and Mrs. Strong Hill, in our town, who had the misfortune of losing his arm by a saw mill, last week, is getting along fine, and his physicians that amputated his limb say, he will be up and going in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKinney, of Jamestown, Ky., spent a few days here, last week, with their relatives and friends. Mr. McKinney reports everything moving along smoothly in his city and community.

On last Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore, a large number of their friends and relatives gathered in honor of the sixty-fifth anniversary of Mrs. Moore. One of the finest dinners that was ever prepared in this section of the county, was spread before this multitude of people on this occasion, consisting of everything that is good to eat. The day was a very enjoyable occasion to everyone present, and it was all a surprise to Mrs. Moore.

Mr. J. F. Pendleton, the well-known stock man, of Greensburg, sent word over that he would be in our section to buy and receive lambs on last Monday, and when he arrived, the farmers were driving and hauling them and before he left our place he had bought over one hundred sheep and lambs and 6 or 8 veals. Mr. Pendleton is a very liberal buyer and our farmers are always glad when he comes into the community after stock. He left word he would be back in July for the remainder of the lambs and all the cattle. We understand that he bought over four hundred lambs in this part of Adair county on this trip, paying 10 cents per lb. for all the best lambs.

Mr. and Mrs. William Esters, of East Fork, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Estes, of our city, last Friday.

Messrs. Dudley & Sons, our efficient mill men, have had the machinery of their mill all looked over by an expert in the milling business, preparatory for doing good work in the future as they have done in the past. Good flour is what speaks for a good mill.

Our old neighbor and friend, T. W. Dowell, of Campbellsville, was in our midst last Saturday, looking as natural as he did when he lived in our town. Mr. Dowell reports everything getting along nicely in his community, and that the people that have gone from this section are all well and getting along nicely.

Editor News:—

No doubt the people of Kentucky have often wondered and asked each other, "what has become of E. O. White," and I suppose some of them have said that he was killed over in France or had left the U. S., or had landed in some place that he was not known and gotten married. But I assure you that neither is the case, for I am still a happy bachelor, not even threatened with matrimony. Now, I will not try to give an account of my self, all of the time since I left, for I fear it would go into the refuse basket, neither will I try to give my life, but I will only speak of some happenings. The first thing that happened when I left was, I lost about $30,000, which is more than a great many people could loose. But I am far from being broke at this time, for I have about $25,000 in the West, and I have one track of land in Mississippi that I refused $24,000 for a year ago, and I have 65 acres of land where I am that I have two groves on, and within 5 years, I will have 40 acres of grove and grove land is worth $1,000 per acre and up.

I am always proud to announce that I am from Columbia, and wish it was so that I could get back to see my friends there. I very often tell people that I meet of my first August election that I was at. Back in those days there was not so much to go like there are now, and we all looked forward to the coming of the first Monday in August, and saved up our money from August until the next one, and I remember sometimes I would have as much as 25 cents to spend, and when this great event came around, I, on that morning dressed up in my new Sapsucker suit and was about ready to step into Columbia, when my father saw Bram coming by, riding one of the largest mules I have ever seen, belonging to Lucian Hurt I think. Any how, I got on the mule with him and we were off, and along the road we overtook Uncle Isaac Epperson and wife, and that seen will forever be fresh in my mind, especially the way Uncle Isaac was dressed. He wore a white shirt and linen Trousers and a silk hat and barefooted and was driving a Jenny hitched to a sled and on that sled was ginger cakes and cider, which will explain the savings that I spoke of. For in those days when you went to town, you did not go to the hotel for your lunch. You did without, only on such occasions like the election, when he could buy all he could eat of ginger cake and cider for 10c. Anyhow those were the happiest days of my life, for it is a certainty that you can't buy happiness with money. I remember my first working out for money. I met my cousin, A. I. Hurt, and made a trade with him to work for him at 24c per day, and started for my new job and never in my life did the future ever look any brighter than it did that morning. There was frost on the ground, but I did not stop to put on my shoes, but took them in my hands and started over that stony road and only stopped at Alf Hurts and woke him up and there I put my shoes on, after I had warmed my feet. And while I was at Obbey's, I remember Kay Robertson and his new wife who was Mattie Johnston before they were married visited him, and they had just run away and been happily united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Now, I don't know what the objections were to the marriage that they had to run away. Anyhow, I for one, could not blame Kay. For you would have to hunt a long time before you would find a more handsome girl than Mattie was. I don't know where they are, but God knows I wish them well. And I would steal one like she was then myself, though I have always been too busy trying to make a living to steal one.

I would be glad to here from any of the people that would like to hear from me. I have gotten lost from most all of my people and would be glad to hear from any of them who wants to come to where I am, just as soon as I get my new house built, I would be glad to have any of them come and spend the winter with me. And if any one wants to come down and garden. I have plenty of garden land.

So I will close this and am sorry that I haven't gotten space to say something nice about every reader of the paper though with every good wish, I remain,

E. O. White,

OIL AND GAS

Adair, Cumberland, Russell
Counties, Kentucky.

BY E. T. KEMPER.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Burkesville, the county seat of Cumberland county, has been filled the past week with operators from Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Ohio, New York and Eastern and Western Kentucky. Leases changing hands daily, new drilling rigs being shipped in and it looks like Cumberland county is going to get one of the biggest development campaigns this year that it has had since Big Boons of 1902-5.

Dr. Fenzell, of Ohio, has moved a rig on the Ode Radford farm, Bakerton field. Drilling will be started as soon as machine can be rigged up.

E. J. Schabelitz Oil Co., now have their rig on the A. A. Morrison farm, Bakerton field, where they will drill a 650 foot well.

A. A. Free, of Bowling Green, Ky., purchased the Dr. Sam Cheatham lease from G. S. Patterson, Louisville. This lease is located on Little Renox Creek. Mr. Free's rig is now at Marrowbone, on the way to this lease. Two wells are to be drilled without delay.

Johns & Patterson, of Louisville, Ky., are placing a large rig on the Hiram Cash farm, below the mouth of Goose Creek.

They also have a rig at Burkesville, which they will place on F. F. Smith farm, on Bear Creek. Richardson & Goff, well No. 2 on the J. M. Radford farm, is drilling at 160 feet and should be in this week.

Southern Oil & Refining Co., have set the five inch casing in their No. 5, on the Rus Gilbert farm, and are now drilling at 560 feet. This well will be drilled to the 800 foot level.

Mr. J. B. Pierce, the operator that drilled in the Coop Gusher on Sulphur Creek, is opening up offices in Burkesville.

Mr. G. R. Reed has just returned from the Creelsboro field. He states that drilling by the Reed Oil Syndicate of Columbia on the Campbell farm, has started and he believes that a paying well will be brought in. There are six other rigs at work in this immediate territory, and that activities are growing more intense.

Well No. 2 on the Granville Williams farm was brought in Saturday. A good flow of oil was encountered, but the manager being absent, work was suspended until they could receive instructions.

Mr. J. B. Baker, brother of Judge H. C. Baker, who has been visiting here and in Cumberland county for the past six weeks, left Friday morning for Montana, stopping awhile with his daughter, who lives in Missouri.

Mr. Tom Dowell, who is employed on the News-Journal, Campbellsville, was among the visitors at the home of Mr. B. F. Chewing last week. His name should have appeared in our last issue, but it was unintentionally overlooked.

Mr. Lee Don Brumhall, of Salisbury, Missouri, a first cousin of Phelps Bros., whom they had never seen came in and spent a most enjoyable week with them. He also visited an aunt, Mrs. M. A. C. Newby, in Cumberland Co.

Mrs. M. G. Sale (nee Miss Kate Curd), of Paducah, arrived in Columbia last Wednesday afternoon, and stopped with her cousin, Mrs. W. B. Patteson. She was reared in this place, living here until her marriage. She will spend some days, visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. Clarence Traylor, who left for his home in Mississippi two weeks ago, was stopped by a message in Louisville, telling him to come to Chicago, Ill., and the supposition is that a position was open for him. The message was from his uncle, Mr. Melvin Traylor, who is a banker in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Tutt and their son, Nathaniel, will leave today for Sparksville, where they will go into summer quarters. Mr. Tutt has a house suitable for occupancy. The latter is not in very good health, and he thinks the country air, cool spring water, fried chicken and corn cakes will prove beneficial.

Mr. W. E. Sarvent, of New York, who has lease holdings in Cumberland and Russell counties, arrived with his wife and little daughter last Tuesday night. They have taken rooms at the home of Mrs. Daisy Hamlett, and Columbia will be Mr. Sarvent's headquarters. He thinks the outlook for oil, in paying quantities is very flattering in the above named counties.

Prof. W. M. Wilson, who was formerly the head of the public schools at this place, but for several years has acted in that capacity at Potosi, N. M., arrived last Friday night with his wife and two children, a son and daughter. They are here to spend several weeks with Mrs. Wilson's parents, Judge Junius Hancock and wife. Prof. Wilson was a very popular teacher here and his wife was one of Columbia's most excellent young women. It goes without saying that everybody was glad to hand them the hand of welcome. The coming year Prof. Wilson will be the head of the schools at Catlettsburg.

Bailey Removed to Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—John Bailey, charged with the murder of Beverly White, of Versailles, near Barbourville in April was brought here Saturday from Mt. Vernon, where he had been confined since his arrest, and was put in the Louisville jail for safekeeping. Bailey was moved at the suggestion of Attorney General Charles I. Dawson.

The removal followed a legal controversy in which power of W. M. Carmichael, Mt. Vernon, police judge, to grant Bailey hearing for bail was questioned. The county and circuit judges are disqualified to act in the case, and Carmichael was prepared to hold the hearing Friday, when a writ of prohibition was filed in the supreme court. June 10 was set for the hearing in the case.

Bailey was indicted in Knox county and granted a change of venue to Harlan. Later he was transferred to the Rockcastle jail at Mt. Vernon for safekeeping, when Judge W. T. Davis on his examining trial refused to grant bail. A wholesale jail delivery was recently staged at Mt. Vernon, when every prisoner but Bailey escaped.

On this occasion Bailey went to the home of the jailer and reported the escape. He requested the jailer to go back with him and spend the night, declaring he was "lonesome." Bailey was brought to Louisville by W. G. Nicely, of Mt. Vernon.

The shooting occurred April 15 as White stepped from the train at Heidrick Station, Knox county. The trouble is said to have been the result of the feud of long standing between the two families. White was on a business trip to the mountains, his first visit in many years.

Bailey escaped into the hills after the shooting, but later surrendered on being promised safe conduct to the Harlan jail. He went to Harlan surrounded by an armed group of kinsmen, who accompanied him with a party of deputy sheriffs to the Harlan jail.

Abram Renick, of the McCombs Oil Co., was convicted on thirteen counts in the Louisville Federal Court for using the mails for the purposes of committing fraud. McLaughlin, of New York, was convicted with him. Renick served in the Kentucky Legislature and was a candidate for Lieut. Governor.

Col. House's Book Lauds Wilson.

Despite the oft told tale of a brake between Woodrow Wilson and Col. E. M. House, the latter pays a high tribute to the former president in a foreword to a book just off the press of Charles Scribner's Sons, entitled "What Really happened at Paris."

Colonel House, who was President Wilson's chief lieutenant in the peace negotiations—or at least in the earlier stages of them—pictures the former president as the moral and spiritual leader of the world, expresses keen regret that the nation "threw away a priceless heritage," by rejecting the outcome of the negotiations, and ends with the hope that America may yet recover some of the ground he thinks have been lost in world esteem.

Colonel House writes: "Wilson had aroused the conscience and aspirations of mankind, and when he stood at the peak of his influence and power there was never a more commanding figure for he was then the spokesman of the moral and spiritual forces of the world."

"His work at Paris was tireless and unselfish. It was not until his return to America to render an account of his stewardship that disaster overtook him and wrecked the structure built in co-operation with our Allies with such painstaking care."

"Until Wilson went to Europe he did not know how deep and terrible were her wounds, or how close they came to us. Until he could see for himself, he could not realize how a torn and distracted continent was seeking help from the only source from which help could come."

"If there was ever a need for a 'Good Samaritan,' surely the time was then. He voiced the unselfish and courageous spirit of America, and our hearts quickened as the pent up emotions of many people broke forth to do him and our country homage."

"But that day was gone in that hour when we left our task unfinished. It was a volte face for which we have dearly paid in the world's esteem. If our gallant dead who lie beside their comrades in the fields of France had done likewise at Chateau Thierry and the Argonne, we could not have reached our high estate. Never before has a nation tossed aside so great a heritage so lightly."

"But even now there springs to life the faith that we yet may recover something of what we have lost and if this book can add to this purpose it will meet the hopes and expectations of its authors."

The Irish Elections

The recent elections in Ireland may not have an important effect on what is yet to come, but the results are worthy of examination because of the light they throw on what has happened in the past.

The popular conception of those not fully informed concerning the vexed Irish problem is that the country may be roughly divided into parts, with Northern Ireland, containing Ulster, solidly for close relations with the British Government, and the South of Ireland, solidly

Roman Catholic, strong for Irish independence.

This theory is correct only as to Southern Ireland. In that district, making up perhaps two-thirds of Ireland, the Sinn Fein candidates had no opposition. But everywhere they won. Not a single district went the other way. And this is the more remarkable because of the fact that not a single man elected from Southern Ireland to the Irish Parliament the British government wishes to set up will take his seat. All became candidates with the understanding that, if elected, they would not recognize or serve in the Parliament, and all were chosen.

In Northern Ireland a different story is to be told. There the Unionists, or anti-home rulers, won, but only after a desperate struggle. Of the fifty-two seats in the proposed Parliament for Northern Ireland, the Unionists seem to have captured thirty-nine. But in almost every district there was a hard fight.

In Northern Ireland those opposed to Irish independence outnumber the other side about as 3 is to 2. In Southern Ireland the party that stands for complete independence seems to be to those opposed about as 10 is to 1.—Evening Post.

I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse. I sent for Cardui."

"I found after one bottle of Cardui I was improving," adds Mrs. Crosswhite. "Six bottles of Cardui and . . . I was cured, yes, I can say they were a God-send to me. Salvation Army Lassie.

No matter in what part of the world you may go, there you will find the Salvation Army lassie. The Salvationists have representatives permanently stationed in 66 counties. It is because of this that the Army has gained a reputation as a world-wide finder of missing people.

A mother in Scotland asked the Army to locate her son, who had worked for an electrical firm in Newark, N. J. The firm had gone out of business. Then the Army wrote a letter addressed "General Delivery," and it was answered by the man's wife, who said he had died of influenza and that the night before she received the letter, she and her two kiddies prayed to God to send them word from "Daddy's people in Scotland."

This is but one of thousands of cases. One-third of the cases handled during the past year have been solved by the Salvationists. The Army has been working eighteen months to find the brother of a stewardess on a big ocean liner. He hasn't been found yet, but the Salvation Army is still trying.

Under the proposed Home Service Program of the Salvationists the Missing friend Bureau will have a vastly increased scope.

When you can't do what you want to do, do the next best thing. It may be the failure is for your good. Sometimes we let our enthusiasm run off with our judgment. We would do many things that are for the best. So a kind Providence heads the thing off. Marshall Field could not succeed as a clerk in a little down-East store, but he could build up one of the biggest commercial enterprises in the world in Chicago. Green, the historian could not do any work for months before he died, but he could dictate the best history of the English people ever written. Francis Parkman could not see to make watches, but he could become America's historian. Haydn was not a great success as a barber but he could write "The Creation" and win world fame.—Grit.

Marry Young.

Don't hesitate, girls, pick 'em when you're young and lead them to the altar, and the course of true love will then run smooth. That's the advice of Mitchell F. Burch, of Argentine, near here, father of fifteen children, license which paved the way for the marriage recently performed uniting his 13 year old daughter, Goldie, to Jerry M. Hines. Burch's 15-year-old son, John, was married last January to Carmen L. Elliott, a bride of 13. Another daughter, Mrs. Florence Joplin, of Argentine, was married when she was sweet 16.

U. S. TUBES
The same standard of quality built into U. S. Tires is put into U. S. Tubes.

Why some men seem to have all the tire luck —

YOU probably know a man whose car is a hobby with him. He knows just why it's the best little old car there is of its class.

And he'll stand up for that car against the world in any kind of an argument.

Year by year an increasing number of men feel the same way about U. S. Tires.

For a while they may try "job lot" stuff, "bargains," "big discounts" and "rebates."

But usually it doesn't take long for a man to sense the economy of the standard quality tire.

For years U. S. Tire makers have been building quality tires for sane tire users—for the car of medium or light weight no less than for the heavy car.

The tire buyers of the land have responded with a mighty U. S. Tire following.

"Find the U. S. Tire dealer with the full, completely sized line of fresh, live U. S. Tires."

The U. S. Tire makers meet the responsibility for supplying this nationwide following with characteristic energy.

Ninety-two U. S. Factory Branches are established, covering the entire country.

Find the U. S. Tire dealer who has the intention of serving you. You will know him by his full, completely sized line of fresh, live U. S. Tires—quality first, and the same choice of size, tread and type as in the biggest cities of the land.

Pure Bred Sheep.

Arrangements for the big sale of pure bred and high grade sheep to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yard, Louisville, by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association on August 11, are rapidly being perfected.

At the sale 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 highgrade ewes will be auctioned to the farmers of the state under similar conditions to those prevailing at the sale of pure bred bulls by the same organizations.

From the report received by L. B. Shropshire, secretary of the Kentucky Pure Bred livestock Association some of the finest animals from the most famous flocks of the state will be disposed of at this sale.

Particular interest attaches to the movement to increase the sheep production of the Western part of Kentucky where the land is peculiarly adapted to the raising of sheep. That section of the state according to the experts possesses an ideal terrain for grazing sheep and the marketing facilities are ideal.

A survey of the sheep industry recently made by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture shows a lamantable of high grade, let alone pure bred sheep in the state, according to W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Live Stock Exchange who quotes figures from the survey to show that out of several hundred thousand head of sheep only seven thousand are of desired breeding. The consequent loss in profits to the farmers runs into an immense sum annually.

E. L. Garman, traffic manager of the Bourbon Stock Yards, calls attention to the big demand this year for spring lambs which has made the Bourbon Stock Yards the greatest spring lamb market in the world.

He quotes prices to show that the market has been unusually favorable to the grower this year.

Hopes of the livestock interests of the state center in the success of the sheep sale as the planting of this many pure bred and high grade animals throughout the state will make a tremendous lift in the quality of the animals to be marketed next year. From this the farmers are bound to receive substantial returns.

To Tobacco Growers.

Louisville, Ky., June 4th. — A series of addresses covering the entire Bluegrass Burley belt, will be made by Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, during the week beginning June 13th, it was announced here yesterday by the organization committee of the proposed cooperative marketing association for Burley tobacco.

The points which Mr. Sapiro will reach, it has been definitely decided, are Lexington, Richmond, Shelbyville and Maysville. Other towns, eight or nine in number, will be added to the list later.

Farmers and growers of tobacco, bankers, warehousemen, and all business men will be invited to these meetings to hear Mr. Sapiro's analysis of the market problem, and the solution which the cooperative association offers for tobacco growers.

This is the second of Mr. Sapiro's tours of the Bluegrass in the interest of the cooperative association. On May 25th and 26th, Mr. Sapiro addressed important gatherings of farmers, bankers and growers of Lawrenceburg, Lexington and the home of W. E. Simms, member of the organization committee.

At each of these meetings, approval of the plan was unanimously expressed.

Definite arrangements and dates for the meeting which Mr. Sapiro will address will be announced later. The contract of the proposed association probably will be offered to the growers present at these meetings, for signature.

The Horse Under Fire.

Joseph R. Schadel, publishes the following, showing the faithfulness of the horse:

The noble horse is a very calm animal under stormy or dangerous circumstances. A remarkable example of the coolness displayed by horses amid the din of war was shown at the front in France, and the soldiers who had the opportunity to personally observe the attitude of the faithful horse, while under shell-fire, can realize what an indispensable role was played in the World War by our good old domestic friends.

While serving on the front in France, I was more than once astonished and impressed by the actions of horses when the shells began to burst and the deadly gas spread its fatal wings over the field of battle. One night, Chateau Thierry, a heavy barrage began to fall in our vicinity, and the horses, which were also open to the danger, did not scatter or run. Instead, three of them, following the example of the soldiers, lay down promptly and waited until the shelling was over. Only one of them was killed, and that poor fellow had remained standing.

Another time, while moving along a road that was under enemy observation, the shells started to burst on both sides of our column. But the good old horses plodded on; the greatest bravery was shown, and, fortunately, none were lost. In time, I hope, there will be more space allotted in history to the excellent part which horses played in the late war. Only the highest praise would be their just dues.

Whenever the plans are well arranged for making off with the liquor, a warehouse is entered and from $40,000 to $60,000 worth of whisky is motored to a place, to be handed out to the retail trade. Who is mostly interested in the stealing of whisky from the control of the government? oh, Lord, don't ask us we promised not to tell.

From the activity of the Republicans and Democrats of Louisville there is going to be the hottest race for the control of the city ever pulled off, especially for Mayor. The tickets have not been named, but every effort is being made to avoid a mistake in selecting runners. Prominent Democrats assert that they will carry the city at the next municipal election.

Building Trades Strike Broken at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 1.—The deadlock which has existed in the building trades industry here since Map 1 when between 10,000 and 15,000 mechanics went on strike, was broken early today, an agreement to arbitrate being reached by the joint conciliation board of the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades Council after fifteen hours of practically continuous negotiations.

Building operations amounting to $40,000,000, employers and union officials agreed, will be in full swing within the next few days under the continuous union shop agreement of May 1, 1918.

The most faithful creature to a master or a mistress is the dog. The following is from Little Rock Ark: "Love of a collie for its mistress probably saved Mrs. M. Funk, of Little Rock, Ark., from being attacked by a robber recently. The man knocked at the back door while Mrs. Funk's husband was away from home, and when she opened the door he forced his way inside the house. After she waged a battle with him, the collie heard the racket and leaped in at the rear door. He attacked the robber and routed him. Mrs. Funk was almost prostrated from fright and swooned upon the bed. The collie was standing beside the bed, guarding his mistress when the police arrived."
